Javascript is a vast programming language that supports tons of libraries and frameworks that enhance it. It also supports multiple plugins with your source code. jQuery is a well-known Javascript library that is ultra-lightweight and kind of 'write less, do more' library. It is commonly used to enhance the use of Javascript on our websites. jQuery takes a lot of common tasks that might need a hundred lines of Javascript. jQuery helps Javascript achieving these task that requires very less effort and binds them into simple methods so that you can easily use them within a single line of code. jQuery Timepicker is generally a plugin that lets users enhance standard form input fields thereby helping users to select different times of different types. The type usually depends on the user. Thus, jQuery parses the frequently used time representations allowing us and the users to write their convenient way to enter time. To use the Timepicker in jQuery, you will need to add two files named jquery.timepicker.min.js and jquery.timepicker.min.css. The reason for using these files is to use them as a plugin tool. To be more precise, if you have any input elements in your document, Timepicker class can make use of that element by initializing the plugin. This plugin is responsible for different types of screen sizes be it a PC or a mobile. To initialize the plugin, you will need to use the below code. $(document).ready(function() { $('input.timepicker').timepicker({}); }); The above code is specifically for use in remote devices like mobile and tabs, although there are plenty of other ways to install the plugin required for jQuery Timepicker. Consider the below steps that will help you with installation according to your system. NPM $ npm i jquery-timepicker Bower bower install jquery-timepicker-wvega --save You can rather choose HTML code to get the plugin. Consider the below code for adding the plugin. Include this code in tag. Include this in the tag. Apart from the above steps, you can download the extension from GitHub as well. Although you can create a UI Timepicker using the above two files. The HTML and CSS codes can be customized by you to visualize the impact of what Timepicker does. To illustrate this in a better sense of understanding, you are required to define a script and an afterimage to display what Timepicker does for you. You could easily select the time, dates, and hours according to your requirements and rather add some more features using HTML and CSS. Consider the below sample code and the image for reference. $('timepicker').timepicker({ timeFormat: 'h:mm p', interval: 60, minTime: '10', maxTime: '6:00pm', defaultTime: '11', startTime: '10:00', dynamic: false, dropdown: true, scrollbar: true } ); The above code is included along with HTML and CSS module. Consider the below image that displays the Timepicker formats, as discussed above. You can visualize how the Timepicker has balanced the format defined in the above code. The UI hereby is created solely for your better understanding. The jQuery Timepicker will let you change these time formats along with the defined parameter. Similarly, you can use Datepicker as well. Example Consider one more example that might help you understand better.
